

RESCUE EFFORTS—Rescue workers had to work painstakingly for more than 2½ hours to free Clair Whitmore, 13, of Snyder'sville from the quicksand elements where he became stuck on Saturday while fishing. He sank into the soft mud up to his chest along the west bank of the Brodheads Creek.

FREED AT LAST—Clair Whitmore is freed and placed on a blanket by Civil Defense officials prior to being taken to the Monroe County General Hospital. The young fisherman gave a sigh of relief when he was extricated from the muddy surroundings. Rescuers said Clair complained of a sore ankle.

SITE OF CAVITY—This is the depression from which young Whitmore was freed. The rescuers had to construct a platform of planks in order to gain better footing. One of the workers said that without the plank foundation, the rescue operation would have been even more difficult. (Staff Photos by MacLeod)

Second Youth Rescued From Quicksand Peril

FOR THE second time in four days police from the Twin Boroughs have been called to rescue fishermen from quicksand.

Saturday at 8:40 a.m. East Stroudsburg Police and Stroudsburg Police were called to the Fable Flats area on the west bank of the Brodheads Creek to rescue Clair Whitmore, 13, of Stroudsburg RD 5, where he had sunk up to his hips in the mud.

Police called Acme Hose Co., East Stroudsburg, to bring men and equipment to the scene and aid in the rescue.

Firemen obtained wooden planks from the nearby property of Palmer Serrano and then placed the planks in a rectangular-shaped "walk area" around the hole so they could conduct their operation.

A ladder was suspended across the planks for the youth to cling to while the rescue began. Attempts to pump out the quicksand after they diverted a shallow flow of water into the pool holding the boy. This operation failed.

A truck owned by Donald

Berger, East Stroudsburg, with a crane was backed near the spot where the boy was trapped and a cable lowered with a canvas seat attached to the end of the cable.

Finally Freed

The seat was worked down into the sand enabling the youth to sit on it. Berger then began to take up the cable slowly pulling the boy from the muddy surroundings.

Whitmore had been fishing in the area early that day with his father, Howard Whitmore.

He was taken to the Monroe County General Hospital where he was examined and released.

The other incident occurred Wednesday when Stroudsburg Police were called to the McMichael Creek in back of Holland Thread Mill on lower Main St. to free Kenneth Margretto, 14, of 34 N. Third St. from quicksand.

President Seeks BiPartisan Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy moved Sunday to extend bipartisan support for his stand on Cuba while his administration took some comfort from early Latin-American reaction to the invasion fiasco.

The White House announced the President will see New York's Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Tuesday afternoon to give him a personal fill-in on Cuba. And press secretary Pierre Salinger said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson would go Tuesday to Independence, Mo., to see Democratic former president Harry S. Truman.

Salinger added that Johnson's visit would be a follow-up to a phone call Kennedy made to Truman last Friday.

Responsible administration figures were not inclined to minimize the seriousness of the defeat suffered by the United States and the forces of anti-communism. But they found at least some sizeable crumbs of comfort in early reactions within the hemisphere.

On the positive side, was a declaration by the presidents of South America's two largest nations—Janius Quadros of Brazil and Arturo Frondizi of Argentina—affirming their joint stand against "direct or indirect interference by extraneous factors" in hemisphere affairs. Another favorable concrete action was Honduras' breaking of diplomatic relations with Cuba.

There also was the cheering fact that no Latin-American government has echoed Soviet cries of outrage against the U. S. role in the Cuban invasion effort. In fact, Uruguay was reported to have rejected vigorously a virtual demand from the Soviet Embassy for condemnation of the United States. Presumably, similar pressures are being exerted in other hemisphere capitals, thus far without effect.

And outside government circles, press reaction has been favorable to this nation, on balance.

Kennedy's pending contacts with Rockefeller and Truman were described as being for the purpose of giving leaders of both parties full information. But it seemed obvious they also are intended to mobilize the widest possible support for the President—not only for what he has done and said but for what he has done and said to do in the future to deal with the thorny problem of Communist power and prestige in Cuba.

Prince Philip, Tony Not On Good Terms

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip, sports-loving husband of Queen Elizabeth II, was reported Sunday to be finding it hard to get along with Anthony Armstrong-Jones, the society photographer who married Princess Margaret.

The London Sunday Dispatch said a state of antipathy exists between the two men, whose interests and temperaments are poles apart.

Columnist Frederick Mullally claimed the prince and the commoner have failed to hit it off since Armstrong-Jones married the attractive princess nearly a year ago. In fact, Mullally said, Prince Philip actively resents the presence of Armstrong-Jones in the innermost circles of the royal family.

The report drew nothing but a frigid silence from court officials, who always decline to comment on gossip about the family figures around the throne.

But it is common knowledge that Armstrong-Jones, the artistic type with a cosmopolitan air, has little in common with the queen's bluff, gun-toting husband.

On the surface, both men have appeared cordial to each other. Armstrong-Jones even adopted Philip's habit of clasping his hands behind his back at public functions.

Mullally said Philip betrayed his feelings about Armstrong-Jones at a luncheon he addressed in London last week.

The prince referred in passing to Armstrong-Jones as "my brother-in-law," and then added quickly: "Well, he isn't really, but you know the chap I mean."

Mullally said the remark was good-humored in tone "but it was delivered with an inflection and an accompanying facial expression that poised the phrase only too narrowly midway between irony and sarcasm."

By dictionary definition, Armstrong-Jones is Queen Elizabeth's brother-in-law, not Prince Philip's. Philip is 39, Tony 31.

France Preparing For Possible Air Attack On Paris By Rebels

Castro Rips U.S. Leaders During Marathon TV Talk

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro told the Cuban people Sunday "the threat of Kennedy is much like the threat of Hitler," and denounced the U.S. administration as thugs and bullies who threaten the world with war.

"We have won over a reactionary, aggressive, brutal enemy," the bearded prime minister said in a four hour and 23-minute radio-TV speech in Havana reviewing last week's guerrilla invasion of Cuba.

Castro told the cubans "counter-revolutionaries must be shot," indicating the firing squad may await captured rebels and others seized in Cuba's widespread roundup of suspects. The prime minister put the number of rebel prisoners captured at 458. The speech, Castro's first public appearance since a week ago Sunday, was delivered with what appeared to be deliberate calm, despite the harshness of the words. Castro reviled President Kennedy and U.S. leaders over and over.

Rusks Prestige

He said the United States risked its world prestige in backing an invasion of Cuba and lost it when the invasion went down to "total defeat."

"The threat of Kennedy is much like that of Hitler," he said. "Hitler threatened small countries. Kennedy threatens small countries."

"We have been patient through killings, bombings, aggression and so forth, but our patience can give out."

The invasion, which he said was crushed in 72 hours by his forces, was like the surprise attacks of the Nazis and the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Castro told his audience.

"Imperialism must pass," he cried.

Castro said that on the day of the rebel invasion, "Yankee imperialism suffered its first major defeat in Latin America." This drew prolonged applause.

"The world rises in our favor," said Castro. "After what? After victory. They admire the way the Cuban people destroyed in less than 72 hours the invasion of the mercenaries, an invasion organized in the Pentagon."

"The United States placed its prestige on this operation and they have lost their prestige. Now they look ridiculous."

"Now, if they were able to make this mistake, why couldn't they be capable of an even greater mistake that could cost one knows not what to humanity."

"They have become a bunch of thugs, of bullies that threaten the world with war, threatens Cuba with intervention."

Castro heaped scorn on the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency. President Kennedy should toss out the chief of the CIA, Allen W. Dulles, Castro said.

Major Labor Legislation Up For Vote

HARRISBURG (AP)—Labor's major legislative program will be brought to a vote in the House this week, Democratic Floor Leader Stephen McCann said Sunday.

But he declined to make a prediction on the possible outcome of votes on the package which includes:

A $1 minimum wage covering every working person in the state except domestics, farm labor and newspaper carriers.

Regular paydays in all industries.

Prohibition against hiring professional strike-breakers.

Restriction on power of courts to issue preliminary injunctions.

Requirement that any contractor on a public project pay the prevailing local wage in any area.

Minority Leader Albert W. Johnson said he did not know the sentiment of House Republicans on the package until they caucus Monday prior to the evening session.

Johnson said, however, that he expected some GOP support for portions of the package.

McCann also was planning to call back a bill requiring five-man crews on all freight trains. This was defeated last week.

Still awaiting a spot on McCann's timetable were three major administration bills. One would require lobbyists to register and report expenditures, the second would prohibit state officials from intervening with state government on behalf of outside interests and the third would make chemical tests for drunken driving suspects mandatory.

Democratic leaders predicted passage of the radar bill in the Senate this week. The measure originally was adopted by the Senate but it was amended in the House before being approved there last Thursday.

Here are other highlights and the timetable for this week's three day legislative session:

Libraries—Senate Majority Leader Charles R. Weiner said he might try to restore the libraries bill to its original form. Republicans, taking advantage of two Democratic absences last week, forced through eight amendments they said would prevent state domination of libraries.

Tourists—There appears to be no opposition to Lawrence's plan to spend $200,000 in the coming fiscal year to help local promotion agencies attract tourists to Pennsylvania.

Now, Castro continued, "they are angered, threatening. What are we going to do in the face of Kennedy's threats? Take fear? No. We will smile."

Castro said the battle against the invaders had been a bloody one and a great number of "our companions" had lost their lives. He then told the audience all the captured rebels would be paraded on the television screen, and the audience shouted "pardon! pardon!" to the execution wall. The Havana television station broadcast interrogations of rebel captives Friday and Saturday nights.

DeGaulle Invokes Security Measures

PARIS (AP)—The French news agency quoted informed sources Monday as saying transport planes carrying insurgent paratroopers have taken off from Algeria.

There was no confirmation of this report, either at the Hotel Matignon, the prime minister's residence, or the Information Ministry.

No radar control station in France has sighted any flights from Algeria.

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle Monday placed France virtually on a war footing to combat a military insurrection in Algeria—and a possible paratroop attack on France.

Shortly after De Gaulle invoked almost absolute powers, under the constitution, to deal with the insurrectionists, Prime Minister Michel Debre went on a nationwide radio-TV hookup to warn the population that a parachute attack from Algeria could be expected at any moment.

Security forces throughout the nation were ordered to be in readiness. In Paris an extra 10,000 specially trained riot and security forces were called out to join an already strong force stationed at vital points.

Situation Tense

The atmosphere in the capital was electric, Frenchmen hung by their radios for news. The capital was rife with rumors.

Algeria radio maintained a stream of broadcasts declaring the insurgents were gaining strength, and relaying mysterious coded messages apparently aimed at right-wing extremists in France.

At some roads entering Paris, loyal armored units were reported to have taken positions to oppose any entry into the city by paratroop forces.

At the airfields of Le Bourget and Orly, the two big fields serving Paris, the Debre speech immediately attracted a scattering of curious Frenchmen, mostly youngsters.

Despite the rumors and tension in Paris and metropolitan France, there was no report of any actual landing anywhere in the nation.

The French Information Ministry termed absolutely false one report that insurgent paratroops had landed at Rambouillet, 28 miles southwest of Paris.

Debre said the government had information that the insurgents had transport planes ready to drop paratroops on various airports in France, particularly those in the Paris area.

Bans Demonstrations

The government radio announced it would stay on the air throughout the night. Listeners were asked to alert the nearest police station if they saw the least suspicious movement indicating action hostile to the government.

Under his nearly absolute powers, De Gaulle banned all demonstrations in Paris and was expected to take similar action throughout France.

Debre announced that as a result of information received by the government, all incoming and outgoing flights from Paris airports were forbidden as of midnight.

As Debre spoke there were reports of heavy troop movements in the Paris region as the government acted to meet any threat.

The downtown Paris area surrounding the residence of De Gaulle and Debre was swarming with security forces.

Debre said that at the first alert of a parachute attack, the population would be warned by the blasting of sirens normally used for air raid exercises.

He said that at the sound of the sirens, the population should pour into the streets on foot and in automobiles to "convince these deceived soldiers of their heavy error."

Tornadoes Clip Illinois, Iowa

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes swirled out of a turbulent squall line carrying heavy rain and hail and cut swaths of damage through Iowa and Illinois Sunday.

At least one person was killed. More than a dozen others were injured.

The twisters flattened homes and buildings, destroyed an airport at Marshalltown, Iowa, hurled cars and trucks off highways and downed power and telephone lines.

Twin tornadoes skipped along a 130-mile path from Marshalltown to near Waterloo, Leland Fry, 51, was killed by flying bricks when one twister battered a church in Garrison, Iowa. Six others attending the service were injured.

Garrison, a community of about 500, was one of the hardest hit. Other Iowa towns in the tornado path, all reporting extensive damage, were Vinton, Tama, Clemons and Green Mountain.

At Marshalltown, an estimated 25 private planes were ripped from moorings and rolled into a mass of jumbled wreckage. Hangars at the field were leveled.

A tornado cut a 30-mile swath of destruction across northeastern Illinois, touching down at Lorenzo, about 50 miles south west of Chicago.

Vivien Leigh Denies Marriage

LONDON (AP)—Vivien Leigh flew home from the Caribbean Sunday with her handsome actor friend John Merivale and tartly dismissed rumors they had been secretly married in Tobago.

"These rumors are just not true," the actress curtly told airport newsmen. "But then those kind of rumors never are, are they?"

Miss Leigh divorced actor Sir Laurence Olivier last December. Sir Laurence was married to actress Joan Plowright in the United States last month.

Mt. Etna In New Eruptions

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—Volcanic Mt. Etna was in spectacular but apparently not dangerous eruption Sunday after more than two months of minor explosions.

The new outburst, from a vent on the northeast side of the mountain below the 10,740-foot high central cone, began Saturday night.

Moves Eastward

The twister moved eastward through Wilton Center and Peotone, leveling farm buildings over a wide area. Tracks of the Santa Fe and Gulf, Mobile & Ohio railroads reportedly were blocked near Lorenzo.

A mother and child were injured at Peotone when their trailer home was overturned by high winds.

At Joliet, 40 miles southwest of Chicago, the storm unleashed a half-inch of rain in three minutes. The city was battered by hailstones up to three inches in diameter. Hundreds of windows were broken. Power lines were down through much of a two-county area.

Illinois State Police reported trucks and cars were blown on their side or off the road.

The violent weather was part of a wide belt of spring thunderstorms rolling across the Plains States from Nebraska to Michigan, an area pummeled by wind, hail and rain the past three days.

Winds up to 73 miles an hour churned up a duststorm at Scottsbluff, Neb., stopping traffic. A Frontier Air Lines DC3 attempting a takeoff was pitched onto a plowed field. No injuries were reported.

Why? Because

"Why? Because he deceived him (Kennedy) too, as he deceived the mercenaries. What did we do to the mercenaries? We tossed them out into the sea again. This invasion of mercenaries organized by the United States was a kind of Normandy that did not even end up in a Dunkirk. They were not even able to re-embark."

Castro was referring here to the Normandy invasion of D-Day in World War II and the evacuation of British troops from Dunkirk earlier in that war.

"Now," Castro continued, "they are angered, threatening. What are we going to do in the face of Kennedy's threats? Take fear? No. We will smile."

Castro said the battle against the invaders had been a bloody one and a great number of "our companions" had lost their lives. He then told the audience all the captured rebels would be paraded on the television screen, and the audience shouted "pardon! pardon!" to the execution wall. The Havana television station broadcast interrogations of rebel captives Friday and Saturday nights.

Laos Cease Fire Seems A Certainty

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Laotian crisis is expected to move shortly from the battlefield to a conference where the Reds will hold the top cards and U.S. negotiators must bargain stiffly to keep Laos neutral.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk planned to journey to the diplomatic conference for its opening sessions. He looked for a Laotian cease-fire announcement by Monday as a precondition for the parley.

Although final arrangements have not been completed, it was understood that the major powers have agreed the 14-nation gathering should start about May 12. The expected site: Geneva.

Current plans are for Rusk and other foreign ministers to open the conference. After that, the U.S. negotiation team would be headed by an ambassador. Some authorities expect the parley to last well beyond a month.

All this is assuming that the cease-fire takes place. Washington has been seeking a halt in the fighting with mounting urgency since Communist-backed rebels began their current drive on the royal Lao government last December.

Rusk told the American Society of Newspaper Editors Saturday night that barring some untoward event he expects the Soviets and the British to issue a cease-fire call within 24 to 28 hours. Britain and the Soviet Union have been discussing the issue in their capacity as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva negotiations which ended the Indochinese war.

Good Morning!

"Father," asked the little boy, "if it's polite to let women be first in everything, why did God make Adam before Eve?"

"Because, son," was the reply, "He didn't want any advice while he was making Adam."

Opera Star To Appear In Concert

FOR the final concert of the season, the Pocono Community Concerts will present Walter Cassel, Metropolitan Opera star, at the East Stroudsburg State College auditorium Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

Cassel, a baritone, was born in Council Bluffs, Iowa. His earliest musical interests lay in the instrumental field, and not until he had won first prize (as a singer) in the Iowa State Music Contests did he seriously consider majoring in voice. This, plus encouragement from the late Lawrence Tibbett, was responsible for his journeying to New York to try his luck.

This New York trip resulted in successful radio appearances on "Hammerstein's Music Hall," "The Coca Cola Show," "Showboat," "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" and the "Bell Telephone Hour." Summers, he added to his growing experience by appearing with important summer theatre groups all over the United States.

He sang leading roles in the Romberg successes, "New Moon" and "Desert Song." Also added to his light opera roles were leads in Friml's "Vagabond King" and "Rose Marie."

Cassel made his debut with the Metropolitan Opera Co. in 1943 as DeBregigny in Puccini's "Manon." His list of characters today include Count Almaviva in "Marriage of Figaro," Germont in "La Traviata," Scarpia in "Tosca," Kurvenal in "Tristan and Isolde," Horace Tabor in the world premiere of Douglas Moore's contemporary opera, "The Ballad of Baby Doe," both the roles of Tonio and Silvio in "Pagliacci," Telramund in "Lohengrin," Escamillo in "Carmen," and many others.

Since making a reputation as a member of the Met he has also been invited to appear with the NBC TV opera theater, the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Tulsa, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Kansas City opera companies. Currently he is also a member of the New York City Opera Co. and is one of the few artists to appear with both this group and the "Met."

Critics have many complimentary things to say about Walter Cassel. The Fort Worth Press said: "Walter Cassel in the role of the villainous Baron Scarpia was truly magnificent. His acting is on a par with his marvelous singing and both are masterful... the result is overwhelmingly stirring drama."

Mathematics Tournament Problem

THE Monroe County Mathematics Teachers Assn., sponsor of the annual mathematics tournament for county high school students, has prepared a series of questions based on previous contests as a guide to the problems to be presented in the tournament next month.

The following is a problem which appeared in the Algebra I section of a previous Monroe County Mathematics Tournament: A man invested $10,000, part at 4 percent per year and the remainder at 6 percent per year. His annual income from the two investments was $500. How much did he invest at each rate? (Use only one unknown to solve).

Solution to Problem No. 8
The answer to problem 8 is 5 percent per year. Using the formula, interest equals (principal) x (rate of interest) x (time in years) we have $90 interest equals ($2400 principal) x (rate of interest) x (9/12 year). Solving for rate we get .05 which equals 5 percent per year.

Wrong-Way Car Cause Of Accident

EAST STROUDSBURG Police reported a one-car accident on Brown St., Saturday at 3:35 a.m. with slight injury to the driver.

The driver was identified as Ernest LaBar, 31, of Canadensis, who was taken to the Monroe County General Hospital where three stitches were taken in his right hand. Following treatment he was released.

LaBar told police that he was forced off the right side of the street by an unidentified car that was traveling west on Brown St., which is a one-way street with traffic traveling east.

In his attempt to avoid a crash with the unidentified car LaBar swerved to his right and crashed into a utility pole. Police said the LaBar car was a total loss. They are continuing with the investigation today.

Open House Date Fixed At Farview

DR. JOHN P. Shovlin, superintendent of Farview State Hospital, Waymart, announces that open house at the hospital this year for the general public of surrounding areas will be held Saturday, May 6 between 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Open house at the hospital is being held as part of focusing public interest during National Mental Health Week which is being observed this year from April 30 to May 6 inclusive, on problems involved in mental illness and what part the community plays in it. It is the hope of the hospital staff that sufficient interest amongst responsible community leaders and its people to bring hospital and community closer together in understanding and relationship in the field of mental illness and care of mental illness and care of mental patients.

A program of interpretation and a guided tour with hospital guides has been arranged. Open house tours and a visit to the hospital represent an opportunity for each person in the community to learn the role of the criminal mental hospital in the treatment and care of the mentally ill.

Farview State Hospital is currently treating and caring for 1,380 mental patients of all ages. Those visiting and taking the hospital tour will have an opportunity to sit down with members of the hospital professional staff and discuss mental health, mental illness and other topics.

Effort Contractor Files Suit Against Corporation

A MONROE County construction contractor has filed a $4,955 civil suit in Carbon County against a New Jersey corporation.

The suit, which was filed Friday, was initiated by Clark C. Smith, Effort, an earth-moving and construction contractor.

Named defendant was Holiday Poonos Inc., a New Jersey corporation with recreational developments near Albrightsville, Carbon County. The firm, with headquarters in Newark, owns land in Kidder Township, which it is developing for the sale of lots, construction of roadways and creation of a lake.

The complaint charges last May 31 the plaintiffs entered into a contract for construction of roads and creation of the lake. Smith was to receive $1.25 for each lineal foot involved in the roadway work and $400 an acre for the lake program.

It was also contended the plaintiff constructed 25,421 lineal feet of roadways and received $1,000 of the $2,500 owed him for the work. He is asking a $1,500 judgement in the first cause of action.

Smith also claims he cleared 7.75 acres of lake area and was paid $2,475, with a balance of $2,125 still outstanding.

He also contends the defendant called for an acceleration of the work program and it became necessary for him to expend additional funds to secure roadway shale, with the New Jersey firm agreeing to pay for half of all expenses for drilling and blasting.

He said the work force was increased from eight to 26 men to meet the speeded up project for which he claims he is still owed $1,330.

Paying Estate Tax With Bonds

By William A. Doyle
Q. You once explained that certain U.S. Treasury bonds are acceptable at par for payment of Federal estate taxes even though the bonds have a market value below their par value. I have been told that all such bonds included in an estate must be valued at par for Federal estate tax purposes. Is this true?

A. Yes. That is the result of a fairly recent tax decision. So, for the benefit of all hands, let's explain this from the beginning.

Let's say you die, leaving an estate big enough to be subject to Federal estate taxes. Let's say that, of the time of your death you owned a U.S. Treasury bond, with a par value (face amount) of $1,000. Let's say that this particular bond would bring only $550 in the open market.

If the bond is one of those which is acceptable at par in payment of Federal estate taxes, the entire $1,000 can be used to pay those estate taxes. Let's say that the Federal estate tax on your estate comes to $1,200. That estate tax can be paid off by turning in the $1,000 par value bond and $200 cash.

If the bond did not have this provision (not all Treasury bonds have it) your estate would have to pay off the estate tax with $1,200 cash. That might involve selling the bond in the open market for $550. The estate would have to put up an additional $350 to meet the $1,200 estate tax.

The actual cash outlay to the estate would, of course, be higher. So, many people (especially older people) own Treasury bonds with this provision. Their aim is to save money for their estates, after they leave this vale of tears.

Until fairly recently, that bond would have been valued for estate tax purposes at its market value—$550. Under the new ruling, however, it will be valued at its par value—$1,000—because that amount can be used to pay estate taxes.

Federal estate taxes are assessed on the value of the estate.

So, if an estate holds a large amount of bonds with this provision, it can actually cost the estate more money.

Confused? Most people are, when it comes to estate planning. That's why anyone with any wealth at all needs individual advice from a good tax attorney.

Q. I am an amateur or sideline investor. I have sort of been watching from the shore for some time and am ready to get my feet wet. I have a couple of stocks in mind and would like to get information about them. I would like to get financial reports from these companies. How do I go about it?

A. Good for you. If more people took the trouble of investigating before they invest, there would be more successful investors.

IT WENT BOOM—Exploding gasoline fumes blew out a 15-foot by 7-foot garage door and more than 12 window panes in the garage of Robert L. Clark, 58 Broad St., Stroudsburg, yesterday afternoon. Explosion was caused by gas leaking from a line on a truck parked in the garage. (Staff Photo by Shafer)

Leaking Gas Explodes, Damages Clark Garage

AN EXPLOSION set fire to a truck and the garage located at the rear of the Robert L. Clark property at 58 Broad St., Stroudsburg, yesterday at 5:45 p.m.

Stroudsburg Fire Department extinguished the blaze. No one was injured.

Gas leaking from the tank to the carburetor on the truck, owned and stored in the garage by the Holland Furnace Co., exploded blowing a two-car garage door out of its casing and setting fire to the truck.

More than 12 windows were shattered by the blast sending broken glass over an area of more than 30 feet.

Spontaneous Combustion

Fire Chief Robert Phillips said that "gas from the leak in the gas line of the motor, mounted between the cab and stake body of the truck, had dropped to the floor of the garage and turned into fumes. When it reached a certain point spontaneous combustion caused the explosion that tore out the garage door and window panes."

In his investigation it was learned that an employee of the Holland Furnace Co. had been working in the garage making repairs to the rear section of the truck and that when he left at approximately 3 p.m. the garage was closed and locked.

Members of the Stroudsburg Fire Department used carbon dioxide extinguishers to put out the fire on the truck and in the garage.

Floyd Kresge, a neighbor, was cutting his hedge not more than 12 feet from the garage when the explosion occurred. The flying glass and wooden splinters from the door missed him by only inches, he said.

Following the explosion he and several men in the area ran into the garage, opened the remaining garage door and pushed the truck into the alley where they could fight the fire in the truck and also get at the fire in the garage.

Chief Phillips made no estimate of the damage and said he would continue his investigation today.

Elks Troupe To Perform At Gracedale

BANGOR — A troupe of 40 entertainers—the Bangor Elks minstrel show—will travel to Nazareth Wednesday night to perform from 7:30 to 9 for guests at Gracedale, the Northampton County Home.

Wearing bright uniforms made by Anton Schiavone, wardrobe chief and make-up men, will be the four end men, inter-locuter Warren Kressler, and the 30-voice male chorus directed by Carl Kressler.

Among the show features will be solos by Ralph Romano, young accordionist whose recent appearances on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour have met nationwide acclaim; vocal soloists Denny Harris, Bob Roberts, Ed Avery, a trio comprising George Roberts, Paul Dodd and Willard Hendershot. They will be backed by Romano as accompanist, and the Apollo Quartet, well-known group which also has appeared on TV. Its members are George and Donald Shook, Bob Albert and Gordon Roberts.

There also will be songs by the end men, Roger Williams, Nelo Maso, Robert Saltern and James B. Gaffney.

Wednesday night's show is a semi-dress rehearsal for the production to be staged May 5 and 6 at Bangor High School auditorium.

Men's Dorm At College Would Cost $1,001,064

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — The State Department of Public Instruction yesterday confirmed that an additional dormitory for men students costing $1,001,064 would be built at East Stroudsburg State College as part of a $1,479,132 building program — provided the Legislature approves the project as recommended in the Governor's 1961-63 Capital Budget.

Approval of the current budget requests would bring to $2,979,225 the sum that would be spent on the college building program in the immediate future, according to the department, which has directed the planning of state college budget requests.

Total allocations previously approved for East Stroudsburg State College projects now under construction or design amount to $1,500,122, the department said.

Preliminary plans for the dormitory provided for in the current budget indicate it would accommodate 200 men students.

In addition to that facility the budget now before the Legislature for approval would provide $145,584 for an additional boiler and stoker to care for new buildings under construction and to be built; $93,692 for installation of air conditioning in the college library and a similar sum for renovation of the college kitchen.

The Governor also recommended in the Capital Budget allocations of $56,000 for planning and designing an additional dormitory for female students to be built at a cost of $800,000 and $89,100 for planning and designing a field house and classrooms building, indicated to cost $1,320,000.

Appropriations for construction of these projects were not requested in the current budget. They were listed to be built at a future time.

The department said that the proposed field house and classroom building would provide more adequate accommodations for men in the physical education course. The existing physical education building would be continued in use for female students in the physical education course. The existing swimming pool would be used by both male and female students, the department said.

Under a previously approved expansion program for the college a dormitory costing $910,000 is being designed. It has not yet been determined whether it will be assigned to male or female students, the department said.

Also under design are an athletic field, listed to cost $194,600 and a service building and garage for which $65,400 has been allocated.

At the present time a special education building is under construction at a cost of $110,357 and a utility system at the college are being rehabilitated and expanded at a cost of $219,765, according to the department.

Remco Arrested On Fraud Count

A NEW YORK City real estate syndicator is being held in custody on charges that he induced New Yorkers to invest more than $200,000 through "false and fraudulent statements."

John L. Remco, 63, was arrested in the State Office Building in New York while waiting to be questioned in an investigation into a real estate venture he was promoting in the Pocono Mountains area.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said Remco and others had been selling shares in the venture that was to develop a plush country club type summer development at Lake Naomi.

Lefkowitz said the promoters fraudulently led investors to believe that they had purchased the property for the development in Pocono Pines.

During the investigation, Mrs. Irene M. Gross, owner of the property, said she never had sold the property or received any money toward the purchase of it from Remco or any corporation with which he is associated.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Orestes J. Mihaly, who conducted the investigation, said Remco conceded that $250,000 worth of limited partnership in the venture were sold to New Yorkers. Remco allegedly used Naomi Realty Associates and Remco Syndicates, Inc., both of 55 Liberty St., in the real estate promotion.

Remco was taken to the Elizabeth Street station for booking on a charge of attempted grand larceny.

Mihaly said Remco's arrest was the first criminal action taken by the attorney general's office under a recently passed law governing real estate syndication.

Couple Hurt As Vehicle Strikes Tree

MONROE County General Hospital listed the condition of Lawrence and Hilda DePue, both of Bushkill, as "fair" last night.

Both were admitted to the hospital early yesterday morning following a one-car accident on Legislative Route 45017, near Mountain Manor Golf Course.

Mrs. DePue was admitted with a possible fractured skull and ribs and a laceration to the face. Her husband was admitted with a fracture of the lower right arm, possible fractured jaw and abrasions of the face.

DePue told police he was traveling south toward Marshalls Creek and was blinded by the headlights of an oncoming car. His station wagon ran off the right side of the highway and smashed into a tree.

Police listed damage to the vehicle at $800.

ESSC Prof To Attend Convention

EARL J. Slutter, associate professor of education at East Stroudsburg State College is in Miami Beach this week, attending a convention of the department of audio-visual instruction of the National Education Assn., as a delegate from ESSC.

Last year, while on leave from the local college, Slutter taught at the Pennsylvania State University.

There he met personnel from the Strategic Air Command, and this year was invited to the convention by the chairman of the armed forces programs section, Glenn L. Lemke, adviser for education, USAF, Aerospace Medical Center, Brooks Air Force Base, Texas.

"Evaluation of the Auto-Tutor Teaching Machine Project at Kessler Air Force Base" is the title of a presentation that Prof. Slutter will attend and report on to his department at ESSC.

Woman Hurt In Collision

WIND GAP—A two-car accident with one person slightly injured was reported last night by the Blue Valley Control Center.

Mrs. Viola Butz, a passenger in one of the cars, was taken to the office of Dr. Robert Dreher. She was treated and released.

Police identified the drivers as John Butz, 45, of Easton RD 1, and Charles Peters, 44, of 321 Broadway, Wind Gap.

Butz told police that he had stopped for the traffic light at the intersection of Broadway and Park Ave. when he was struck from the rear by the car operated by Peters.

Patrolman Ambrose Ambrose, investigating the accident, estimated damage at $800. He said that Peters will be arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

People Favor Aid For Rebels

Question—Do you think the United States should have given specific aid to the Cuban Revolutionists?

Lewis Hastie, East Stroudsburg—“Yes, the United States should have taken the necessary steps to prevent Communism from obtaining a foothold in the Americas. The government should do all within its power to accomplish this by peace if possible or by other means.”

Myrtle Weiss, Stroudsburg—“Yes, if Castro gets too far it will be much harder to stop him. But I guess I speak for many mothers inasmuch as I would not like to see a war caused by actions to stop just Castro.”

Jack Osborne, Stroudsburg—“I think we should give plane for plane and tank for tank in the event that Russia offers that kind of aid to Cuba or any other country.”

Monika Brock, student at Stroud Union High School, Stroudsburg—“I do not know too much about this but I do believe from what I have read and heard that the United States should not allow any free country to be invaded by Communism or by people supporting that form of government.”

Break Lock, Take Beer From Truck

A TRUCK owned by Twin County Distributors, 112 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, was broken into and 12 cases of beverage stolen between 9 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday, Chief of Police Travis Seese, said last night.

Chief Seese said that entry into the rear of the truck was gained by breaking the padlock on the rear door. He listed 10 cases of beer and two cases of ale as the only article stolen from the truck.

Discovery of the burglary was made by Joseph Yutz, owner of the distributing company, when he went to the truck to back it to the loading platform to place additional cases of beer in the van for delivery.

The truck was parked on the north end of Rudy's parking lot in the rear of 112 Washington St. East Stroudsburg Police will continue their investigation today.

Taxpayers, Candidates To Meet

STROUD Township Taxpayers League has invited all candidates for township supervisor and school director to attend a league meeting tonight in the Courthouse.

The meeting is called for 8 p.m. in Court Room No. 1. Ralph D. Paul, president, will be in charge.

Bids For Passage

The Administration's farm bill would shift from Congress to the nation's farmers the power to write their own program under the aegis of the secretary of agriculture.

The measure differs in at least one respect from President Kennedy's proposals contained in his message to Congress last month.

Originally, the President had recommended that the agriculture secretary and farmers draw up their own commodity-by-commodity programs, Congress retaining merely veto power after the fact.

The proposed legislation now requires congressional review before a price and crop control program is submitted to a referendum of affected growers. This change is likely to improve the chance that Congress will enact a farm law during this session.

This prospect had been regarded as rather dim until the farm bill was introduced last week, because congressmen indicated they would resist being deprived of their prerogative of writing farm law.

In a statement accompanying the bill, Mr. Kennedy set as his goal achievement of prosperity on the farm on a level with "economic health in the city." But what the programs will cost the public in food prices and taxes was left uncertain.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman said it was "impossible to answer flatly and generally whether food price increases would result" from the proposed programs.

Apparently, the best he had to offer was the vague promise that the increases would be "nominal." Consumers are entitled to something more definite.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Showing The Uniform

The decision of the United States to permit its military advisory group in Laos to don their uniforms and carry their tutelage into the front lines makes sense even though it carries some risk.

This "showing of the uniform" should improve the morale of Laos Government troops. It certainly indicates that the United States has not dumped the Laotians' cause while the hiatus over a cease-fire continues.

But its chief value probably lies in the message it will convey to Moscow and Peking. This is that while Washington now prefers a settlement making Laos a buffer state tied to neither great power block, United States advisers and military supply units are not willing to abandon the erratic little war while Moscow purposely dawdles over a cease-fire reply.

Unfortunately, distrust between East and West has grown during the hiatus. Waving a big stick from Washington will not, of course, lessen that distrust. But neither, by itself, will speaking softly.

Both are needed together. If this symbolic "showing of the uniform" is meant to convey toughness and determination to stick it out on this line all summer, then its diplomatic accompaniment should be continued willingness to agree on a binding cease-fire.

As to the legal propriety of uniformed advisers: identifiable Soviet assistance has been given to rebels who have no recognition as a government. American assistance to forces of a recognized head of state certainly is at least as permissible. —Christian Science Monitor

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Revolt Against GOP

Constantly mail comes in from many parts of the country which says that the United States "is a republic not a democracy," which nowadays is a play on words. Government is the exercise of power by those who are in control of the machinery for the management of men and production and distribution.

The United States is a representative republic which means that this country is governed by representatives of the people in Congress assembled in accordance with the Constitution.

There are those who say that the trend in this country is toward democracy which, in the United States, would mean the submission of government to direct pressure of the people. The assumption of those who want to keep this a republic rather than a democracy is that the structure of government must be retained, despite wars and economic dislocations.

No country can afford to be static and the United States is not static. Government is constantly changing its form and application as the affairs of the country change. It is impossible to engage in wars of the nature of World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the Cold War and function under the constitutional limitations of the Jeffersonian era.

Constitutional changes, by amendment or judicial decision, beginning with the first Ten down to the Brown Decision have been constant.

The War Between the States resulted in significant constitutional alterations by war. The 14th and 15th Amendments were basic constitutional changes.

Therefore, those who want to keep this a republic rather than a democracy, are raising an issue which is not of significance at this moment in our history. In fact, what we need to face now is the fact that for better or for worse, this country is in a period of transition, the nature of which no one can foretell.

'Maybe They'll Get Tired Before They Get Here'

The Pennsylvania Story

Right To Know

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—You'll find it in pile of bills up for final consideration and possible vote this week.

It isn't one that ordinarily would make a front page banner headline.

It isn't one that is specifically of direct concern to most Pennsylvanians.

This is one of the reasons why so far it has been largely glossed over.

And yet — from the standpoint of a principle — it is important to every resident of the Keystone State.

Curiously perhaps, the bill — again directly — is of figurative concern only to Pennsylvania's fishing enthusiasts.

In comparison with the 11 million — plus population of the Keystone State this isn't too large a percentage.

But everyone else has a stake in the legislation too. This is why:

The bill in question — provides simply that meetings of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission "shall be open to the public."

The question arises of course: "well, who's concerned other than fishermen?"

That isn't the point, actually. The point of concern is its symbolism — and in this everyone has a stake.

The other day in Washington during the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the society's "Freedom of Information Committee" sharply criticized "news suppression within the Kennedy Administration," pointing up particularly the State and Defense departments.

The question arises of course as to where Pennsylvania stands on the issue.

Basically, the Keystone State stands in a fairly decent position — not because the issue has been ignored but because Pennsylvania's newspapers during the past year have been hammering and drove through two critically important pieces of legislation now generally referred to as "public right to know laws" specifying that the activities and records of public state and local agencies must be open to the public.

However the legislation carried the clause "unless otherwise specifically prohibited by law."

This clause has caused some of the more secretly inclined agencies to scamp for behind the curtain — where this possibility is even remotely interpreted to apply — with the result that the public has been denied the "right to know."

Here on Capitol Hill it has been a fairly invigorating and continuing battle for newsmen who cover the Capitol Hill beat — although in all fairness it must be said that the Lawrence Administration has bent over backward in most respects to keep the doors open.

There are some agencies however that play the game to the hilt — the other way, insisting they have the right of seclusion.

The Game Commission and the Fish Commission are two such agencies. Bills have been introduced in this session that would eliminate this "seclusion" tactic — and the one covering the Fish Commission is on the House calendar this week.

It isn't even remotely a question of "national security" of course — but you'd think so from the manner in which some of the meetings of these two agencies have been conducted in the past, strictly behind closed doors insofar as the public is concerned.

It has become so ridiculous that even the gent specifically hired to handle the public relations job in the past was barred from meetings of the Fish Commission!

Meanwhile the sportsmen themselves who are the sole support financially (via their license fees) of these two agencies are continually left out in the cold.

The point is, it's all part and parcel of the overall concern of the public should have in its own "right to know" what goes on in the public agencies it supports.

Contrastingly — behind the Iron Curtain, it doesn't matter!

The Allen-Scott Report

Procurement Waste

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington, D.C. —The General Accounting Office is turning over to the Justice Department an astonishingly thick file of facts on waste and fraud in defense procurement.

The report of the GAO, Congress's auditing arm, involves more than 50 cases and will be used to support a series of Justice and Defense Department actions, including:

(1) Government lawsuits, aimed at recovery of overpayments;

(2) Increased renegotiation of defense contracts, to recapture excessive profits;

(3) Increased use of competitive bidding in place of contract negotiation; and

(4) Streamlining of Pentagon procurement agencies.

The cases range the gamut of defense buying from space hardware to underground launching pads. Blame for overcharges falls two ways: On contractors themselves, for overstating their costs or ballooning their prices, and on government agents, for ineptness and carelessness in signing up and paying contractors or in managing their supply needs.

Among the more spectacular cases reported in the file are: A negotiated contract for aircraft engines with a price of $38,985,530, found too high by $1,480,000;

A navy contract based on costs totally unrelated to the work, leading to an overpayment of $2,596,000, and an outlay of $2,105,640 to buy electronic equipment to replace "lost" items which later turned up.

Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), who also has been given a copy of the GAO file, has the staff of his House - Senate Joint Economic Committee examining the document. He wants to know what congressional action should be taken to end this "incredible waste in defense procurement."

Dangerous Situation — If Secretary of Defense U. E. Baughman has his way there will be no more picketing in front of the White House.

He has told a House Appropriations subcommittee that a law forbidding the picketing should be enacted immediately.

I'm deeply concerned that one of these days the picketers or demonstrators that parade in front of the White House will become violent and try to harm members of the First Family," Baughman warned.

A large group of demonstrators could easily overwhelm the small police force that is on duty on the White House grounds. This could create a dangerous situation.

Baughman pointed out that picketing is already forbidden by law on the Capitol grounds and in front of the Supreme Court.

Pre-Invasion Hassle — A tense policy split in inner White House councils preceded the anti-Castro invasion of Cuba.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff vigorously advocated U. S. military intervention here on the ground Russia was actively doing that by heavily arming Castro with "offensive" weapons and hundreds of technicians, a considerable number of them military personnel.

The Pentagon leaders urged this after the Central Intelligence Agency reported Castro would receive at least six navy ships and 25 additional MIG-17 fighters from the Soviet in May.

The Joint Chiefs contended this constituted "aggressive military intervention" directly counter to traditional U. S. policy in the Western Hemisphere. They also warned Russia was steadily building up a powerful military base in Cuba that was increasingly a menace to the U. S. and Latin American countries, particularly in the Caribbean.

Secretary of State Rusk and Undersecretary Chester Bowles strongly opposed this view.

They held U. S. military intervention in Cuba would be "another Suez" unless approved by the Organization of American States. They also advised against seeking such authorization at that time "as certain to do more harm than good."

One consequence of this inner council split was to convince leaders of the anti-Castro forces not to delay their invasion any longer.

When Dr. Miro Cardona, their Acting President, made that decision known, he was assured the U. S. would block any attempt by a foreign country, including Russia, to aid the Red-dominated Castro regime.

Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles supported the insurgents' plan for an immediate invasion and setting up a provisional government in Cuba.

Books and Songs — President Kennedy is reading two new books — "Not to the Swift," a novel about the presidency by T. S. Eliot, and "The American Presidency" by Prof. Gerald C. B. Packer, Tulane University. Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.), lauded Coffin's book on the Senate floor as a "fascinating novel that completely captivates the reader. It is important and timely, and I call it to the attention of my colleagues."

The President's favorite "Irish song" is "Danny Boy." That's what he told veteran Representative Michael Kirwan (D., O.) when they got to discussing favorite melodies.

Conveyances, Period Clothes At Reception

A show of models wearing period fashions will mark opening of the newly refurbished Carriage Room at the Pennsylvania State Museum, Harrisburg, it was announced by Dr. S. K. Stevens, executive director.

The event, including a reception open to the public, will take place from 8 until 10 p.m. Wednesday, May 10.

Each model will wear a gown chosen to match periods of the museum's noted collection of carriages, and the range thus will run from Empire to the Civil War and turn of the century eras. Appropriate musical background has been selected.

Dr. Stevens said emphasis will be given to several of the prize carriages in the collection, the formal coach owned by General Simon Cameron and once used by Abraham Lincoln, an overland stagecoach once used for the mail run between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and the four-horse, 14-passenger Talley-Ho, a sporting vehicle of the late 19th century.

Others of especial interest include a buckboard phaeton and a ladies pony cart.

Mahaffey Strikes Out 17 As Phils Sweep Chicago

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Art Mahaffey pitched a four hitter and struck out 17 — one short of tying a record — in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday as Philadelphia shut out Chicago twice, 1-0 then 6-0.

The 22-year-old right-hander, who came up from Buffalo last July and compiled a 7-3 record by season's end, had nine strike outs in the first four innings. He went into the ninth with 16 and struck out only the first batter.

Feller and Koufax
The major league strikeout record of 18 in a nine-inning game, is shared by Bob Feller, formerly of Cleveland, who did it in 1938, and Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles, who did it in 1959.

The Phillies won the opener on

Bobby Gene Smith's homer in the ninth inning, thus ending a four-game losing streak.

John Callison had a three-run homer in the fifth inning of the nightcap, off Bob Anderson, who gave up only five hits through eight innings.

2nd game 000 000 000-0 4 2
Chicago 110 030 01x-6 7 1
Philadelphia 110 030 01x-6 7 1
Anderson, Drott (8) and S. Taylor, Thacker (6), Bertell (8); Mahaffey (1-1), L-Anderson (0-2).
Home run — Philadelphia, Callison (2).

Hebert Ties Venturi For Houston Golf

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jay Hebert, the 1960 PGA champion, battled three of the last four holes Sunday to tie the slender Ken Venturi at 276-four under par to give the Houston Golf Classic its third straight playoff.

Venturi, with five birdies on the front nine, had held a three-stroke lead at the turn but ran into trouble on the back nine. Despite three bogies, he faced a 30-foot putt on the final green that would have given him the $7,000 in top money. The ball rolled two feet past the cup.

The 18-hole playoff will be held Monday.

Hebert placed a final round 67 beside earlier rounds of 69, 71, and 69. Venturi took his second straight 69 after opening with a pair of 70s.

Monday's loser will collect $3,600.

Shared Lead
Venturi had shared the third round lead with Peter Thomson and Tommy Bolt, with Hebert one stroke off the pace.

Bolt, a former Houston carpenter making his best showing in the Classic, took his second straight 70 for a 278 and $2,500.

Thomson, the former British Open champion from Australia, jumped to a 75 that dropped him to 283 where a five-way tie also included the pretournament favorites, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player. Each received $1,200.

Hebert's brother, Lionel, the 1957 PGA champion, finished with a 69 for a 279 for the 7,122-yard, par 70 Memorial Park course. He collected $2,200.

Alley Craze Hits England

LONDON (AP) — The American bowling craze is sweeping Britain—and already there's talk of a world series challenge to the Americans.

"The British and Americans love playing each other at golf and tennis," says Antony Mobbs, manager of one British alley, "So why not at bowling."

"It could happen in a few years, once we've got the quality of bowlers to do it."

Only a year ago the first alleys were opened in Britain. Since then four more have sprung up. Already there are an estimated 100,000 bowlers in the land.

Pin Machine
One automatic pin-setting first (American Machine and Foundry) has orders for fitting out 60 bowling centers throughout Britain in the next few years.

There are signs that the keeling sport will rival darts, snooker and table tennis as the indoor games the British love best.

The appeal of bowling as a family game seems to be the reason. That's what helped spread the sport to an estimated 26 million Americans.

By the start of 1962 the forecast here is that bowling will have fascinated the British to such an extent that a challenge to the Americans will be just around the corner. If so, it will have happened in just two years.

Pender Will Fight Downes In Summer

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender — a convincing basileo over gallant old Carmen Basilio behind him — Sunday turned his one good eye toward England's Terry Downes as the next challenger for his limited version of the world middleweight championship.

Pender, sprawled on a dressing room table after his two-knockdown, 15-round decision over Basilio Saturday night, said he will fight Downes in London July 3 for the title recognized in Massachusetts, New York and Europe.

Same Type Fighter
Pender, his left eye cut and swelling, said Downes was much the same type fighter he had just destroyed with his customary style — a controlled, well-planned attack and defense built on a left hand that flicked and stabbed, then clubbed and mauled.

He said the fight, viewed by a Boston Garden crowd of 12,168 and a national television audience, went just about as he had planned: "Let him come to me, wear himself out, then take it. I thought I had it from the fifth on and could breeze on in."

Rain Halts Fight
MILAN (AP) — The world junior welterweight championship fight between Italy's Duilio Loi and Puerto Rican Carlos Ortiz, scheduled for Sunday afternoon in San Siro Stadium, was postponed until May 10 because of rain.

The HUNGRY SPORTSMAN by Eddie Meier

Plump Cook Pheasant, Dakota Roast
Before many more weeks have slipped past, sportsmen in some areas will undertake winter bird feeding. In most cases it is advisable to distribute the food in small amounts over a wide area rather than pile it in a single spot!

The big pile plays into the mouths of predators, first by congregating the birds and secondly by inducing them to return several days in succession. Here is a recipe for roast cook pheasant that comes from the Dakotas, ringneck paradise!

Pluck and draw 2 birds and soak in salt water 15 minutes. Use 1 tablespoon salt per quart water. Wrap the pheasants in damp cloth and place in refrigerator overnight. Rub the birds well inside and out with olive oil and place in roaster breast down. Add ½ cup melted butter and ½ cup white wine. Cover and bake 45 minutes in hot oven (425 degrees). Turn birds breast up; season with salt, pepper and celery salt; add another ½ cup butter and 1 pint cream and roast in slow oven (300 degrees) until birds are tender, about 1½ hours. Baste every 15 minutes with sauce from pan.

Braves Shade Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — South-paw Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves celebrated his 40th birthday Sunday by edging the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 on seven hits before 21,249 at Forbes Field.

The Milwaukee ace fanned four and walked four in posting his first triumph of the year against as many defeats.

Pirate third baseman Don Hoak spoiled Spahn's bid for a shutout when he belted a home run over the wall in left-center field in the ninth inning.

Right-hander Vernon Law, a 20-game winner for Pittsburgh last year, was charged with the loss — his third straight without a victory this season.

Passes Newsom
Spahn's four strikeouts Sunday gave him a lifetime total of 2,085 to put him in 10th place among the all-time leaders in that department. He passed Buck Newsome who had been in 10th place with 2,082 strikeouts.

The Pirates also made serious bids to get to Spahn in the fourth and eighth innings, but in both cases the aceless left-hander pitched out of trouble.

The Braves got to Law for single tallies in the fourth, fifth and to relief hurler Elroy Face for one in the ninth.

Wes Covington opened the fourth with a double, moved to third on an infield out and scored on a sacrifice fly by Charlie Lau.

Blow Lead
Going into the last frame, the Giants and starter Billy Loes held a 4-2 lead with a chance to move ahead of Los Angeles in the standings. Then the Cards exploded with four hits, a walk, plus an error by first baseman Willie McCovey.

San Francisco relievers Billy O'Dell and Bob Bolin squashed St. Louis uprisings in the final two innings of the opener when both times the Cards had the tying run on third base with one out.

Orioles Grab Edge Baltimore Blasts 13 Hits To Defeat New York 4-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson and Jackie Brandt paced the Baltimore Orioles in a 13-hit spree and a 4-1 triumph over the New York Yankees Sunday.

The victory gave the Orioles the edge in their first series this season with the defending American League champions. The Orioles won two, the Yankees one and another was a tie to be replayed later.

Brandt, leading off, and Robinson, batting third, accounted for two of the Oriole runs with three hits apiece. Brandt had a double and two singles, Robinson a triple and two singles.

Mickey Mantle kept the Yankees a threat by smashing his fifth homer in nine games in the fourth inning. It tied the score by match.

Cards Rally To Earn Giant Split

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pinch-hitter Maury McDermott doubled home three St. Louis runs in the ninth inning Sunday, salvaging a 7-4 nightcap victory after the San Francisco Giants won the doubleheader opener 2-1.

The split left the two clubs tied in second place behind National League-leading Los Angeles.

McDermott, who struck out to lead the center field slugging Jim Duffalo as the Cardinals rallied for five ninth inning runs.

Balk Helps
A balk by starting Yankee pitcher Danny McDevitt, who took the loss in his first American League appearance, helped the Orioles go ahead in the fourth.

Gus Triandos singled, went to second on the balk, and scored on singles by Ron Hansen and Earl Robinson.

The Orioles added two runs in the seventh on a single by Brandt, Brooks Robinson's triple and a double by Jim Gentile who batted two-for-two.

Pitcher Chuck Estrada was the beneficiary of the Oriole hitting outburst and a staunch relief job by Dick Hall. Although he gave up only four hits, Estrada was lifted in the seventh inning after giving up his sixth walk for his first victory in two 161 appearances.

Meets Von Clay

Johnson Favored To Hold Crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, hungry for the success and money that have eluded him through 14 years of ring warfare, makes the first defense of his National Boxing Association light heavyweight championship here Monday night. He meets Von Clay, a remade fighter after only 3 years as a pro.

The 32-year-old Johnson, one of boxing's great counter-punchers, is rated at least a 3-1 favorite to defeat his fellow Philadelphian in the scheduled 15-round at the arena. There will be no television.

Short Career

Clay, with only 18 pro fights (13-3-2) under his belt, earned a title shot with two recent impressive victories, both over foreign foes. He kayaked Rudolph Diaz, Argentine champion, who had won 20 in a row, and then outpointed previously unbeaten Chick Calderwood in London, separating the Scot from a 30-fight winning streak.

The former car washer started fast as a pro, winning 10 and fighting a pair of draws before losing to Tiger Floyd and twice to Doug Jones. The defeats and a draw with Sixto Rodriguez prompted Manager Tony Graziano to send Clay back to the gym for a fistic re-education.

Dodgers Top Reds 5-1 On Moon Shot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wally Moon slammed his eighth wrong-field homer in 12 games and Roger Craig pitched a polished six-hitter Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 5-1 before 25,289.

The victory gave the Dodgers a sweep of the three-game series and left the Reds with only one run to show for their last 24 innings.

Keeps String Going

Moon, who has hit safely in each of the 12 games he has played this season, produced the second Dodger run with a 350-foot shot into the left centerfield seats in the fourth inning. Although the wily little outfielder bats left-handed, he has hit all eight of his homers to left or center center, most of them over the leftfield screen.

Jerry Lynch accounted for the only Cincinnati runs with a pinch homer in the eighth.

Twins' Kralick Blanks Senators

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Pitcher Jack Kralick pitched and batted the Minnesota Twins to a 1-0 victory over Washington Sunday in 43-degree weather.

The Minnesota southpaw, who picked up his first victory of the campaign, sent across the Twins' only run with a ground single between first baseman R. C. Stevens and second baseman Danny O'Connell in the fifth inning to score Billy Gardner from second.

Two Throats

The Senators threatened only twice before the 13,408 fans who ignored morning-late rains to attend the game. Marty Keough led off the fourth with a two-base blow.

State Hotelmen To Air Means For Promoting Tourist Travel

LAKE HARMONY—New and increasingly effective means of promoting travel tourist business in Pennsylvania will be explored by the Pennsylvania Hotelmen Assn.—a state-wide organization of more than 200 hotels and resorts—at a resort conference and workshop Tuesday through Thursday at Split Rock Lodge.

A panel of speakers will include Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of Pennsylvania's Department of Forests and Waters; Arthur P. Irving, Jr., travel advertising manager, New York Times; C. Elwood Huffman, member of the Pennsylvania Game Commission; R. E. McDermott, head, Department of Forest Management, Pennsylvania State University, and Harold A. Swenson, director of travel, Pennsylvania Department of Commerce.

The conference will begin with arrival Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Split Rock Lodge where registrations will be made. At 5:30 p.m. there will be a reception at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg, followed by a 6:30 dinner at the Penn-Stroud. At Sunday Sales? participated in

8 p.m. the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau Show will open at the Penn-Stroud.

On Wednesday the opening session of the conference will get under way at 9 a.m. in the new Compass Room of Split Rock Lodge with Vance E. (Bill) Booher of Mountain View Hotel, Greensburg, presiding.

"Regional Promotion, the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau Story" will be discussed by William J. Altier, president of the bureau.

Following this there will be a round-table discussion on "Where Next—2 a.m. Closing or by President L. Gardner Moore, Bedford Springs; Vice President Charles Heinze, Allenberry; W. Tingle Dickerson, secretary-treasurer, Eagles Mere, and John M. Crandall, Pocono Manor.

Harold Swenson will follow with a discussion on matching funds available in the Commonwealth for area promotion.

"Why Advertise?" will be the theme of a talk by Irving of the New York Times at the 12:30 p.m. Wednesday luncheon. The afternoon will be given over to tours, round-table talks and recreation.

A reception and dinner at 6:30 will be held in the new Colonial Room of Split Rock Lodge. The film, "Pennsylvania," to be shown at 8:30 p.m., will depict how the Pennsylvania Game Commission endeavors to stimulate travel. Huffman will be chairman.

On closing day, Thursday, the workshop will convene at 9 a.m., again in the Compass Room, to discuss the new minimum wage bill and its effects on resort operations.

Following this will be a panel "Package Plans Are Here to Stay," with Robert P. Cournoyer, Hotel Hershey; William W. Malleson, Skytop, and Crandall.

"The Expansion of Recreation and Vacation Facilities in Pennsylvania" will be the theme of R. E. McDermott.

"Pennsylvania Vacationland" will be the theme of a talk by Dr. Goddard at the 12:30 p.m. luncheon Thursday, to be followed by adjournment.

Everett Allen, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Hotelmen Assn., and Vance E. Booher, chairman of the PHA's resort committee, are coordinating the details of the conference and workshop.

Allen urged a strong attendance of area resort and hotel people. "Pennsylvania's efforts to attract an increase volume of visitors and tourists are recognition of the fact that travel is a large and important industry for our commonwealth," Allen said.

"This workshop will provide a complete and up-to-date picture of what is being done and what is planned for the future. He stressed that advance reservations should be made with the management of Split Rock Lodge.

Claims Finding Roman Victims

ROME (AP)—An Italian archaeologist has found a burial ground he believes holds the remains of Romans slain by Hannibal in the battle of Lake Trasimene almost 23 centuries ago.

Prof. Giancarlo Susini says an aerial survey helped him locate the burial ground not far from the scene of the battle, in which Hannibal's Carthaginians ambushed Flaminius' Roman army of 25,000 on June 24, 217 B.C. Lake Trasimene is midway between Rome and Florence.

Susini says graves in the burial ground contain ashes, indicating mass cremations. The Carthaginian invaders killed 16,000 Romans and captured 9,000. Flaminius was slain.

Dear Abby

It Isn't Rope That Counts

Dear Abby: Why are parents so indifferent about what time their teen-agers come in at night?

I've turned a deaf ear to our 17-year-old daughter's plea that no one else has to be in by 11 p.m. This rule is for movie dates, and does not apply to dances or parties.

Recently other couples have come home with her from the movies, and they stay until all hours. My wife says, "At least we know where they are." I sent them home at 2:30 A. M. and now our daughter is furious with me. Do parents sleep peacefully trusting that Sonny and Sissy will be home for breakfast? I say, give them enough rope and they'll hang themselves. What is your opinion?

OLD FOGGY

Dear Old Foggy: I think teenagers should "be in" at a decent hour in order to get enough rest and sleep. I am not so worried about their "hanging themselves." If you have raised them right, you need not worry. If you haven't, they can "hang themselves" before the sun goes down on a Sunday afternoon.

Dear Abby: There is a man who belongs to our club who is giving me a pain in the neck. Just because I am a widow (50), and he is a widower (72), he thinks it is a real treat for me to dance with him. So, every time he spots me he asks me to dance. He is more interested in putting on a performance than anything else. He pumps your arm up and down like an old-fashioned pump handle, takes great, long steps, and goes fast and furiously, trying to cover as much territory as possible. He simply wears me out. He is nice to talk to, but wish I could get out of dancing with him. Have you any suggestions?

EXHAUSTED

Dear Exhausted: This might seem corny, but tell him you have a corn.

Dear Abby: My husband wants me to get a job, and right now! Our baby was two this month. I want to be home with our child until she goes to school, but my husband thinks I am just lazy. He says we can hire someone to look after the child. I think that is my privilege. The wives of many of our friends work and my husband says we will never have what the Joneses have because he is pulling the load alone.

I would rather have fewer ma-

Adelmann On Tour Of West Point

ROTC Cadet Robert J. Adelmann, 21, son of Carl F. Adelmann, 2010 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, recently participated in a four-day tour of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

The annual visit, involving outstanding Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets from various colleges and universities, familiarizes the cadets with the mission of the academy.

Cadet Adelmann is a student at Pennsylvania Military College, Chester. He was graduated from Stroud Union High School in 1957.

Gargarin May Visit London

MOSCOW (AP)—British impresario Victor Hochhauser said Sunday astronaut Yuri Gargarin very likely will be flown to London for the opening of the Leningrad Ballet at Covent Garden. The ballet is scheduled to open in the British capital June 19.

Hochhauser said he was told this by an official of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, who added that Gargarin also would be present at the opening of a space exhibit at the Soviet trade exhibition in London about 10 days later.
